

Fine Weather Favors Celebration

Big Crowd Turns Out For Wainwright Sports

Despite the fact that the crowd, which visited Wainwright on Wednesday had drawn a large crowd, the annual celebration held under the auspices of the Board of Trade on Friday proved to be a popular and well-attended event.

The committee had done their work well, and the day went off smoothly with lots of events for all, and plenty of thrilling ball play to watch.

Any weakness in the baseball program was more than offset by the keen competition in the softball, and this together with the horse racing and the children's events made the day one of real enjoyment.

There were three games of baseball in the first game Wainwright met Rouse, and after a game in which the players almost wore themselves out with running, Wainwright was found to be out on top by a tidy margin.

The second game was the ball highlight of the day, in it Ribstone met and defeated Hughten by a narrow margin taking the long end of the 8-6 score. The game was featured by the play throughout, and kept the fans on the edge of their seats.

In the final game Wainwright again took the honors in a one-sided competition with Ribstone.

Horse racing filled an important place on the program, and proved popular, as usual. In the free-for-all Bud Greenwood, of Edgerton, took both first and second prizes, with the third prize to Dale Henderson, of Viking.

In the pony class Dale Henderson topped the race, with Eddie McElride of Edgerton coming in second and George Anderson of Wainwright taking third.

The farmers event was won by Ronnie Babb, with Claude Stewart and Chris Harris taking the other two awards. Claude is of Edgerton and Chris of Wainwright.

Top in the cowboys were Ken Tester, first, George Anderson, second, and Harold Tester, third. All these boys are of Wainwright.

Dale Henderson of Viking again took the lead in the polo race, with Ken Tester placing second and Harvey Cooper, third.

The races were started by Vern Treffer, with the judging in the hands of Allan Treffer, James Robinson, Bert Kitchen and Allan Roberts.

In the softball the Wainwright Meteors came out on top after defeating Stigo in the semi-finals and Autumn Leaf Co-op. In the primaries, Stigo had defeated Hughten in the primaries and Wainwright High School in the extra draw.

The men's softball was more like a bantam draw, with twenty teams in the running. Results of the games were as follows:

First draw: Heath from Hughten; Princess Pats from Dormitory; Gilt Edge from Tolland; Army H.Q. from Rigo; Paschenale from Fabyan; Metropolitan from Highland View; McCafferty from Pelican; Dole from Viking; Hope Valley from C.N.R.; Kin-sella from Prosperity.

Second draw: Heath from Princess Pats; Army H.Q. from Gilt Edge; Paschenale from Metropolitan; McCafferty from Dole; Hope Valley from Kin-sella.

Extra draw: Paschenale from McCafferty.

Finals: Army H.Q. from Heath; Hope Valley from Paschenale.

Final: Army H.Q. from Hope Valley.

There was some disappointment in connection with the wrestling bout in the evening, when despite repeated assurances that they would be present, two of the wrestlers failed to put in an appearance. However, the main bout was carried on under the scheduled and a second bout was arranged which gave the fans a lot of thrills for their money.

Winners in the athletic events were as follows:

Under School Age Children's Race: 1. Paty Johnson; 2. Billy Johnson; 3. Terry Wright.

30 Yard Dash, Boys 8 and under: 1. Harold Hall; 2. Douglas Heathfield; 3. Robert Cartier.

LEGION NOTES

The idea that ex-service personnel, eligible to join the Legion, should wait until called upon by some present member in a cap in hand attitude and be formally asked to join, appears to be some extent prevalent.

The Legion did not become the mighty organization it is by following any such idea. It was formed by the spontaneous gathering together of those men who were far-sighted enough to realize the good such an organization could accomplish. It was brought into being in exactly the same manner as the Canadian Corps of World War 1, and by the remnants of that Corps. Surely, when one looks back over the splendid legislation for the benefit of ex-service men and women, the work of Legion members both inside and outside of Parliament, the like of which is not to be found in any country, we are worthy of the support of your membership.

Irene Seale Wed In Pretty Ceremony

The Auburndale United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday, July 2nd at 4:00 p.m. when Miss Irene Seale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Seale of Wainwright, exchanged vows with Mr. Herman F. Hagith, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Hagith of Edmonton. Rev. W. N. Blackmore of Vermilion performed the marriage rites before a truly artistic setting of pastel streamers forming a large fan and set off to perfection with white and pink carnations and long streamers.

The bride, in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a full-length gown of white French lace, accentuating a fitted bodice, high neckline and long sleeves. The bride carried a bouquet of white French lace, accentuating a fitted bodice, high neckline and long sleeves.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE?

One of the greatest handicaps in the progress of modern medicine is the reluctance of a certain percentage of the public to co-operate with the efforts made to curb disease.

Fortunately this reactionary reticence becomes a lesser handicap as time goes on and the general public becomes better educated and more enlightened. . . but it is still a serious obstacle in the road leading to better national health.

Compulsion is a word that does not sound nice, especially in a democracy, but history has shown that at times it has been necessary to use compulsion in order to make available the protection that can be afforded. Outstanding example of this is the fact that in Britain and other countries, it has for the past many years been compulsory to have infants vaccinated for smallpox unless a certificate from a physician is procured, indicating that the child is not in condition to stand the vaccination.

No one would question the wisdom of this infringement on the rights of the individual, for smallpox, once a scourge, has practically disappeared.

The disappearance of small pox did not however end the task of preventive medicine. Other diseases challenged and were conquered by the public co-operation. Diphtheria, another scourge of childhood, which cast its shadow over our own districts in the earlier days, is now no longer feared. It's occasional outbreaks merely serving to underline the need of continued vigilance.

Isolation, another means of preventing the spread of contagious disease, is another important feature in the health plan — and here too, compulsion is necessary and has been used for many years.

Now as the time of the T.B. Clinic approaches we are given a superb opportunity to protect our own health and at the same time to do our share in protecting the health of others. T.B. is a real menace. Its existence in almost every area in Alberta is known by the active cases that have called on the help of the doctors and the sanitaria. But there are, without question, cases which have not been detected. These undetected cases are in most cases of a mild nature and have not progressed so far as to have passed the "curable" stage.

The curability of T.B.; as with other diseases of its nature, depends to a great extent on early diagnosis and treatment. Moreover the early diagnosis of T.B. is a very difficult matter. It may pass unnoticed by the victim, and even when medical assistance is called for its identification may prove a problem. The chest X-ray, a harmless and free service which now does not even require the person being examined to disrobe, offers the best possible means for the detection of unsatisfactory chest conditions.

Canvassers, seeking a listing of those who wish to take advantage of this service, have found reticence on the part of some individuals in signing up. Such an attitude is not in keeping either with the best interests of the individual or of the community, and it appears high time that the compulsion angle should be brought to bear.

What there is to justify any individual in refusing to ascertain their own freedom from this disease, and thus leave the health of others unprotected, is hard to understand. It is hoped that all will forget their prejudices and come out for examination when the clinic visits Wainwright, Edgerton and Chauvin.

T.B. is contagious, and most cases are spread from one human to another. If you carelessly harbor this disease you are not only making the cure of your own case more difficult, you are also endangering the health of others.

When the president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was asked in the '30s how the depression had hit Los Angeles, he replied: "Depression? We have no depression in Los Angeles, but I will admit that we are having the worst boom in many, many years."

MOST PEOPLE ARE SATISFIED

The recent overwhelming victory of the Liberal party indicates that despite all the kicking "against the government", despite the unprecedented high rates of taxation, and despite the fact that this government has held power for quite a number of years, the average Canadian is pleased to have them back on the job again. It is really a great tribute to Liberalism in Canada, and should call on the proponents of this party to use the powers conferred on them with the greatest of integrity and justice.

The measure of public confidence thus accorded should permit our present government to go forward with strength and courage, and face the issues in a determined and progressive manner, fully confident that the people of Canada, while they may complain, will stand behind them in any action they see necessary.

A fellow went up to the gate of nudist camp on a chilly day and asked to be admitted.

"Nothing doing," the guard spoke up. "This is a nudist camp. You can't come in here with that blue suit on."

"This isn't a blue suit," chattered the visitor. "I'm cold."

A VERY VALUABLE RESOURCE TO RECEIVE PROTECTION

Perhaps we should not use the past tense in the above heading, for the Alberta government has already done valuable work in the protection of our oil and gas from careless handling and exploitation. However, there is more to do, and the issue is of such importance as to warrant the calling of a special session of the Legislature.

This session is now under way, and its purpose is to lay down a policy and a set of regulations which have already been prepared and laid before the oil companies for their study. The proposed regulations are required to cope with the situation regarding the exporting of gas and oil from the province.

There is little question that exporting will go on. It is only just that it should, for had oil exports from the United States not been permitted we in Alberta would have had to go on pretty short shrift for oil up till now. That we should refuse to do for others what others have done for us (and profited by) is unthinkable — provided we are in a position to do it, and provided it is carried on in an orderly fashion and not to the detriment of the welfare of the province.

Defence department and navy announcements last week indicated that Canada is aware of possible future demands on her armed forces and that she intends to be prepared to meet them.

The Navy revealed the first step in a building program for fast new escort vessels for anti-submarine work. A contract has been let to Canadian Vickers, Limited, of Montreal, to start work immediately on the first of the ships. It is hoped the keels will be laid by the end of this year or early in 1950.

Security restrictions guarded details of the vessel, the Navy did say the ships are classed as major war vessels, and as such are the first to be completely designed and built in Canada. They will incorporate the latest in marine design, with separate sleeping and dining quarters for a crew of 350.

The Navy added that the vessels will function as old frigates and corvettes during the war, but the comparison ends there. No more frigates or corvettes, this ship is superior to the type it is replacing, the Navy said.

The defence department is set to spend $2,500,000. Two-and-a-half millions are to be spent in bringing up to operational standards the war time R.C.A.F. station at Baginville, Que. It means, primarily, the erection of married quarters and barracks for Air Force personnel and the extension of existing runways.

Baginville has not been used as a permanent field for some years now, but was included in the R.C.A.F.'s post-war development plans announced last year. These call for a system of fighter screens to protect vital areas.

Work will also begin soon on a dormitory building to house a further 110 cadets at Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont. The building, to be built of limestone, will house administrative offices, equipment storage rooms and a swimming pool to be constructed according to Olympic specifications. The structure is expected to take care of a steadily increasing enrolment. Maximum is expected to be reached by 1952.

Trade Markets

Canada regained a potato market last week closed to her in November last year. The United States government agreed to allow the sale of Canadian table potatoes which were barred last fall to prevent "flooding". Re-opening of the market will not affect the Canadian price support program instituted by the government when the market was closed, a government spokesman said. Farmers in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island still will receive $1.15 for every 100 pounds of table potatoes "in the bin of the farm" last April.

The export has been lifted because of the material change in the American potato picture.

The Dominion's trade commissioner to the Belgian Congo returned to Ottawa to tell of tremendous trade possibilities awaiting Canada in that African colony. With its 10,000,000 natives and 50,000 Europeans, the Congo is wealthy with dollars.

The 41-year-old commissioner, L. H. Ausman of Toronto, said in an interview that Canada hoped to do a big trade in canned goods in the Congo. He said that Canada's exports of fish, flour and inexpensive hardware and wants to increase her exports over the $2,500,000 worth of goods she shipped there last year.

It will likely mean a favorable trade balance for Canada since imports of palm oil, tin, coffee and other products are expected to be less than exports.

But the trade commissioner said Canada must be prepared to meet competition. European countries were eager to sell to the dollar-rich Congo. Japan, too, was trying to move into the Congo trade picture.

Prairies Need Rain

Cool weather and rain are improving prairie crop prospects, but rain is badly needed in some parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Bureau of Statistics reported in a sixth of 12 telegraphic reports on prairie crop conditions.

Manitoba appeared to have excellent crop prospects. Stands of grain were generally heavy, pastures were improved and spraying for both weeds and grasshoppers was in full swing.

In Saskatchewan, from 10 to 50 per cent of the wheat was in the short-blade stage. Poor crop prospects existed in the greater part of south-central and southwestern districts.

So far losses due to grasshoppers have been kept to a minimum, the Bureau said, but the potential danger of heavy damage in the most seriously infested areas—central parts and spreading to west-central and south-central areas—still remains.

Alberta crop prospects were extremely variable. North and east of Calgary growth still was either poor or fair. Crops were deteriorating rapidly in much of central Alberta. Pastures in this area were poor and hay crops short. General rains were needed immediately.

In Alberta local frost damage around Edmonton and Lethbridge ranging from five to 20 per cent was reported. Summer fallow operations were about 50 to 100 per cent completed. Grasshopper damage was being kept to a minimum through control campaigns.

Approximately 4,000 aged indigent Indians are now receiving monthly monetary allowances under a policy which went into effect last year. This is in addition to other benefits which elderly Indians receive, such as food and clothing.

POWER OF THE PURSE

Every body has a personal stake in high prices and the consequent decline in money values. Yet almost every time the subject is broached, somebody interjects the defeatist argument: "What can you do about it?" That is the doctrine of despair but it is all too prevalent among people confronted by organized groups who possess powerful agencies of propaganda and prejudice. Because of this, too many people have been ready to accept the conclusion that socialism is the inevitable remedy and the ultimately we must also be involved in some such costly and destructive experiment as that current in Britain, with its managed money, inconvertible currency and the state planning and control that destroys freedom.

The Wall Street Journal, as an antidote to such defeatist thinking, prints a letter from Philip McKenna in a discussion of monetary problems. Mr. McKenna writes: "I've discovered something that should be very encouraging to individual American citizens who don't want to lose their freedom and individual responsibility to a Compulsory State but who don't know what to do about it."

"First," I've discovered what to do. "I've seen well-intentioned people throwing money down rat-holes in an attempt to oppose or reform one injustice or another, mostly by proxy. I observe that the key to human liberty consists in restoring the gold coin standard of money."

Mr. McKenna continues to urge that "The Co-operative State has been able to permit the use of money of intrinsic value to its citizens" and that if the power of the purse is in the hands of the government rather than the taxpayers that produce it, governments are fair game for pressure groups. Therefore, for all the problems that face us Mr. McKenna has an answer: "Get back the power of the purse." Get the money, real money, where it belongs, in the hands of the people who earned it. Keep the problem basic, then use every means of publicity and influence to support it. This is no philosophy of despair. Such a philosophy cannot live with the conviction that you can change the thinking of a people and, with it, their fortunes. And how to do it? "I have learned," Mr. McKenna says, "that a private citizen can make his voice heard and citizens have to do it. It doesn't need much organization. Just do something every day among the people you meet."

I've Been Thinking

Why Did Johnny Stay Home From School?

H. G. Torkley

As I write this the school year is drawing to a close. When this gets in print the summer holidays will have begun. When grade IX and XI students began to write Departmental examinations on June 11, the grade X and XI students were dismissed, and the high school registers were balanced for the year. This has given me an opportunity for gathering some attendance statistics relative to the high school and for presenting them in a form that may be of interest to many of you.

I have been astounded during this and other years with the indifference of many students (this is not entirely unexpected) and parents toward the securing of good school attendance. Whereas the father (or mother, if she works for wages) may be most concerned about being at work every day and often goes when he would be well advised to stay at home in bed—the children may be permitted to remain out of school for the most trivial reasons. For example, three of our grade IX students had permission from home (or so they said) to absent themselves from school to watch the public school softball game on the day of the P.E. track meet. Had I kept a record of all such instances of practical consent for absenteeism, I could fill this week's edition of the paper with them. The parental attitude is probably this: Oh, one half day doesn't make much difference, and anyway, she has only two classes left after school. Or probably the child offered to do a half-hour's job at home in return for the concession.

Little thought is given to the disastrous effect of an accumulation of half day absences. Perhaps new work was taken in class on the day of that last absence. The foundation work of a whole section of a subject was missed. Naturally there are reviews, but they seldom cover the work so thoroughly. If the student who missed that work asks questions and the teacher on the explanation, the rest of the class, who know the work, may thus waste much valuable time. Unnecessary absenteeism is an injustice to the school as a whole.

This is the attendance information that I have gleaned from the registers of the Wainwright High School for the past school year. (Classes were held for 199 days.)

9 students attended 195 to 199 days.
10 students attended 190 to 194 days.
15 students attended 185 to 189 days.
16 students attended 180 to 184 days.
11 students attended 175 to 179 days.
10 students attended 170 to 174 days.
8 students attended 165 to 169 days.
3 students attended 160 to 164 days.
9 students attended 155 to 159 days.
1 student attended 150 to 154 days.

98—Total number of students.
Percentage of attendance for the year was 91.38.

The average student missed 18.13 days. Grade IX attendance was the worst of all the four grades. Percentage of attendance there was 89.37. The average grade IX student missed 19.96 days. The grade XII attendance was best, the percentage being 92.19.

The average student in the school missed approximately one day out of every eleven.

Education here is big business. In these four grades alone during the year there were 17,779 working days put in by students. However, there were 1,816 possible working days, 1,658 working days were lost through absenteeism and other causes. To the taxpayers this should be a matter of serious concern. The school is being maintained at great cost to educate children. The cost of maintenance is in no way diminished by non-attendance of certain students. But, on the contrary, it is increased. If the taxpayers were shareholders in a business that lost profits through similar reason, they would most definitely do something about it.

"But," you may ask, "What is the school and school authorities doing about it?" We keep the parents informed of attendance of their children through the periodic reports. I frequently write special letters to parents if poor attendance alarms me. If a child between 6 and 16 years of age misses as much as 20 per cent of the school days in a month, the attendance officer is notified, and family allowances may be stopped. Court action may be taken if a child of school age is not at school. Students in grades X and XI must attend 180 days to be recommended for a full year's credits (180). Children of 16 years or over in grades below X and in grade XII may attend as they please—or as their parents please—if they prove a great substance to the school, I may recommend to the Board of Trustees that they be expelled. As a matter of fact attendance is rarely as bad that any of the above things, except appeal to the parents, can be done. And yet there is a great unnecessary waste of the taxpayer's money through preventable absences.

I do not intend that a comparison should be made between absences of children from school and absences of adult workers from industry. Whereas a 95 per cent attendance of workers in a factory might make the further operation of the factory impossible, the operation of the school is possible.

MARGINAL FARMING

By any standard it is measured wheat farming is marginal farming. Crop production in this district is too big a gamble unless plenty of livestock is kept on farms to distribute the risk. If a wheat farmer is barely getting by now at present prices his position will be precarious when prices drop.

LOSSES IN SHIPPING LIVESTOCK

No matter who abuses the livestock there is no doubt that the producer pays a lower price on account of the large number of crippled and bruised stock that arrive at the packing plants daily.

Greater care in handling, preparation of cars, trucking, and removal of horns and tails will all help to reduce this enormous loss. Producers, shippers, truckers, railway and stock yards can all do their bit in preventing this loss.

WHO'S LUCKY NOW

"That guy is sure lucky" is often heard around the district. The truth is that the so-called lucky boys have used better judgement and very likely worked harder than the average.

ICE WELLS

Ice wells or ice houses on the farm serve the same purpose as an electric refrigerator does in the town. Spoilage of fruit, meat and vegetables can be prevented by the use of ice that has been stored in the winter. There is little actual expense connected with the construction of ice wells or ice houses. Circulars are available on the construction of either.

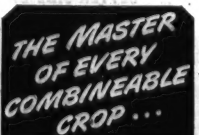

ESTROGEN EFFECT ON MARKET POULTRY

During recent years estrogen treatment of market poultry has been extensively publicized as a space-filling agent and, to a limited extent, this is true, says R. Bird, Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

In older birds estrogen is without fattening effect for the simple reason that such birds already possess the natural ability to accumulate fat, and all that is required for development of this fattening tendency is proper management. However, in broilers and fryers, estrogen does promote deposition of abdominal fat, but, unfortunately, it also increases the fat in the skin, which is the most important skin fat, which determines market grading. It is not significantly affected by the estrogen treatment but to a much higher degree by good feeding and management practice.

There are, however, two points at which estrogen has definite and beneficial effects. In the first place it produces a thickening of the skin which imparts what commercially is known as "brightness" to the carcass and in the second place it acts as a growth promoting agent. For four weeks estrogen treatment causes a steadily increasing growth impetus over non-treated birds, but beyond this length of time the effect of continued treatment wears off to such an extent that by the end of seven weeks all the estrogen induced growth has again been lost.

Whether these benefits will be worth the added cost of estrogen treatment is something that has to be decided when estrogens can again be sold in the Canadian market, but the thing is certain, no amount of estrogen will make up for lapses from the best of management. Young birds that have been left to fend for themselves on an open range or to roost in overcrowded

SUMMER BUD TIME FOR INSPECTORS

During the summer months inspectors of the Plant Products Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture throughout Canada will have a variety of jobs to do. First of all, crop inspection will occupy a great deal of their time. Thousands of farm acres in Canada apply each year for crop inspection with a view to growing Registered and Certified seed. The crop ranges from cereals to vegetables, and the standards of inspection used are those prescribed by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association and the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The salient points of inspection are for purity of variety and relative freedom from weeds and other crop plants. The seed crop inspection season in Canada extends from May to October, according to the kind of crop. In 1948 the average inspected was 422,825.

During the summer months the same inspectors are engaged in enforcing the Dominion Act respecting Feeding Stuffs, Fertilizers, Feedstuffs and Binder Twine, so that the farmers of Canada may be protected against bad products of these kinds. Summer is also the season of the year for local agricultural conventions and field days, at which the inspectors are often required to give addresses on subjects relating to their work. One of the summer activities is that of co-operating with provincial officials in developing agricultural extension projects initiated by the latter.

TREAT PESTICIDES WITH DUE RESPECT

Pesticides as a class of products are poisonous to man and domestic animals if taken internally, in fact, many of them may produce toxic symptoms if inhaled in sufficient quantity or if left in contact with unprotected skin for a short time.

When most farmers are aware of the dangers of familiar pesticides such as arsenic, lead, copper, phosphorus, strychnine or mercury compounds, some may not be so familiar with some of the recent additions to the list of chemicals used as fungicides, insecticides, rodenticides, vermifuges, weedicides; all of which are embraced by the word "pesticides".

This new group consists largely of organic compounds but should be regarded with the same respect as the older pesticides. Some of the most common are: DDT, Dieldrin, Aldrin, and others. These are powerful poisons and should be handled with the same respect as the older pesticides. They are not to be used carelessly. They are not to be used in the home. They are not to be used on food crops. They are not to be used on livestock. They are not to be used on children. They are not to be used on pets. They are not to be used on anything that you would not want to eat or drink.

MARCH FEED SHIPMENTS

Shipments of prepared stock and poultry feeds in March increased by approximately 25 per cent over the month of February. Increases were particularly noticeable in poultry feed shipments, although cattle and hog feeds also moved in significantly larger volume. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics report from their sample survey that the movement totalled 2,498,753 cwt.

All provinces experienced larger sales, and although the bulk of the increase was absorbed by Ontario and Quebec, shipments into Alberta were more than twice those of February and considerably larger than any month during the past year.

FARM WOMEN'S WEEK

Mrs. Vera Macdonald, Supervisor of the Home Economics Division, advises that details of the program for Farm Women's Week at Olds and Vermilion are nearing completion and that those attending can look forward to a most informative and enjoyable four days. This annual event at the Olds and Vermilion Schools of Agriculture offers not only an opportunity to learn a little more about the world of home-making, but with the beauty of the school grounds, the convenience of the dormitory and the pleasurable associations, Farm Women's Week provides both a pleasant and a profitable change.

MORE VETERINARIANS FOR ALBERTA

The Hon. D. A. Ury, Minister of Agriculture, advised recently that ten new veterinarians are now locating in Alberta this year from the Ontario Veterinary College. Commencing practice at Westlock, Fort Saskatchewan, Leduc, Edmonton, Drumheller, Calgary, Chauvin, Crossfield and Cardston, their training and ability will be used to advantage in these concentrated livestock areas.

In the past, Alberta has had too few veterinarians in proportion to the livestock population to adequately prevent and control animal and poultry diseases. Recognizing that every successful livestock country requires a large number of skilled veterinarians, the Alberta Department of Agriculture has encouraged young men of ability to enter the profession by providing assistance in the form of yearly financial grants. This policy is now paying dividends. With these extra veterinarians in the field more work can be done in controlling Bang's disease, tuberculosis and other livestock diseases requiring skilled professional training.

QUALITY HAY

Good hay will be in keen demand this year and every effort should be made to ensure that available supplies are of good quality. Too much insistence for hay fed each year as a result of delayed cutting.

J. E. Birdall, Supervisor of Crop Improvement, Alberta Department of Agriculture points out that the aim in handling hay should be not only to obtain a good yield but to retain the leaves and produce a hay that is as green in colour as possible. Delayed haying results in stems that are coarse and full of fibre and much of the value is lost. Those desiring to attend are urged to make application early, since approximately 100 applicants only can be accepted at each school. Application forms can be obtained from District Home Economists, District Agriculturalists, from the Principals of the Schools of Agriculture at Olds and Vermilion or from the Home Economics Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

uable leaf material is lost. Alfalfa leaves make up about 50 per cent of the plant and they contain a very high percentage of the proteins, minerals and vitamins which are the main food elements of forage crops.

For best results, alfalfa should be cut when one-tenth to one-half" in bloom, alfalfa and alfalfa clover in full bloom, sweet clover in the bud stage, and the grasses soon after heading. With grass-legume mixtures the hay should be harvested when the legume is at the recommended stage for cutting.

DISEASE IN THE BEEHIVES

Bees, like other farm animals, are subject to diseases. W. G. McManis, Provincial Apiarist, Alberta Department of Agriculture, reports that some outbreaks of foul brood have occurred in Alberta this year and urges beekeepers who notice the brood dying in their colonies to send samples to the Agriculture Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture at Edmonton for diagnosis.

Where foul brood occurs in a colony it will gradually kill the colony which then becomes a source of infection to other colonies. To check the spread of this disease all suspicious cases should be reported to the Department so that control methods can be applied quickly.

FARM WEAPONS FURY IN FIGHT AGAINST DROUGHT

"Like putting baby to bed for the night" say these two farmers of Holland Marsh, Ont., affected by combined drought-front problem. They put cheesecloth covers over the garden as protection against the weather. Ontario farmers have nearly given up hope of even a poor crop as clear skies and sunbakes have seared grass and produce.

Report to the People

As the people of Battle River have again decided by an overwhelming majority that they wish me to represent them at Ottawa, I want to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation for the trust they have placed in me and to assure them that I shall continue in the future, as in the past, to represent all of the electors to the very best of my ability. I also wish to express to the editors of the papers carrying this report my warmest thanks for the opportunity they are providing me for keeping my constituents informed on current affairs without any financial reward. Perhaps it is only fair, even at this late date, to state that this report is the brain child of Mr. George Baynton, editor and publisher of The Lloydminster Times, who nearly five years ago offered space once every four weeks to each of the Federal and Provincial members representing Lloydminster to express their particular views regarding matters of current interest. Since that time I have taken full advantage of this most generous offer and other editors within the constituency soon made their space available also without financial reward.

In my last contribution which was printed in the issue of June 1st, in some of the papers, I undertook to review some of the happenings over a period of years and when dealing with the outbreak of war in 1939 I had this to say—and I quote from the Star-Chronicle, Wainwright, of June 18th, page six, column three: "Almost immediately a call went out for volunteers for the various branches of the services and many of the first to volunteer were the men who had been on the broad-line in Ottawa for months before, men for whom the Government couldn't do anything; men who were parading on Parliament Hill etc. In the issue of the same paper for Wednesday, June 23rd, page two, columns five and six, a letter appeared over the R. P. name of J. W. Stambaugh of Bruce, Alberta and dated June 14th, 1940. Portions of his letter read as follows:

"My attention has been called to a letter of Robert Fair's entitled 'Report to the people' and published in several newspapers in the Battle River constituency. In one part of the letter he is talking about those men who volunteered to serve in the war and he makes this statement: 'THE FIRST TO VOLUNTEER WERE THE MEN WHO HAD BEEN ON THE BROAD LINE'."

This is one of the most shameful and disgraceful statements I have ever heard a public man utter and it is an insult to every boy who volunteered to serve his country, and to the parents of the boys. I myself have two sons who volunteered. The Liberal candidate for Battle River constituency had four brothers who volunteered. These boys were not on the broad line. They volunteered from a sense of duty and from a wish to serve their country."

"What kind of people are these whom we have sent to Ottawa to misrepresent and insult us?"

If my information is correct, a gentleman by the name of J. W. Stambaugh of Bruce, is the president of the Alberta Liberal Association. Having some knowledge of Liberal and Liberal administration in the province of Alberta between 1905 and 1921 and also in the dominion for a number of years, I am not at all surprised to find Mr. Stambaugh deleting some of the words in that portion of my statement which he chose to quote, for the purpose of misrepresenting the people of this and other constituencies. This is one of the low-down tricks of party leaders in the past that is today condemned and despised by the decent liberals of Alberta and our people in general and the dupe who has in this instance resorted to such a trick shows, when exposed, that I am not the one who is guilty of misrepresentation and he has thereby insulted the boys who volunteered, their parents—with the possible exception of one who doesn't know the difference anyway—and the public of Alberta generally. My record in defence of and in support of the Veterans of Great Wars One and Two since I entered Parliament in 1935 is well known through the harshest record of debates in the House of Commons, 'Report To The People' in the local press and addresses delivered at hundreds of meetings in the Battle River Constituency and elsewhere. The Editors of Battle River on June 27th last confirmed what I have said above by returning me to Parliament for another term with approximately fifty five per cent of the votes polled in a three way contest. One of Mr. Stambaugh's objectives has been turned down by the electors, including the Veterans and their parents whom he endeavored to prejudice against me as they have not yet forgotten the Liberal Government's policy regarding recruits for the various services, pressure put on these men to compel them to volunteer and the treatment accorded to the late Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence in connection with Infantry reinforcements for the troops overseas. As there is still one seat vacant for an Albertan in that home for retiring and retired party men, perhaps Mr. Stambaugh has an eye on this reward? I am sure the people of Alberta want to be represented—not misrepresented—by men who are a credit to our province. On June 27th the Liberal Government certainly made a clean sweep in the Dominion election and with the support of more than 100 members in a House of 365 seats, there is no excuse for not proceeding with the many measures that have been promised during recent months. Social Security, Housing Program, Lower Cost of Living, Senate Reform, Monetary Reform and many other measures in the interests of the COMMON people should be proceeded with without delay. With a population of approximately thirteen and a half million people and an estimated National production of more than fifteen billion in value, the people of Canada have a right to expect a higher standard of living than ever before. We have the production, we have the potential market—of which the Canadian people form a very large part when supplied with the necessary purchasing power, therefore the Government should make effective a policy that will guarantee distribution of our production and, failing to do this, will rightfully be condemned and ousted from office when the people have an opportunity to speak at the next General election. By that time, Social Credit should be sufficiently organized to do the job as Social Credit is the answer to our present difficulties.

ROBERT FAIR.

BETTER SIDE OF ELECTIONEERING

If P.C. Leader George Drew and Prime Minister St. Laurent ever get together to discuss their election tour and compare photographs, they will find they have one idea in common—how to win friends and influence people. From Halifax to Vancouver, they have coaxed children, smiled and waved to curious throngs, visited local authorities, posed with girls' bands, Indian chiefs and signed autographs. Their wives have accompanied them on their tours, have both been political assets to their husbands. With election time a few days off, both leaders are at the climax of their tour, are winding up for the last swing at their rivals. Mr. Drew is shown here with members of the Saraja Legion Girls' band.

THREE ESSENTIALS FOR GRADE A HOGS
Grade A hogs are the top grade and command the premium and best price on the market. In producing this kind of hog, top grade practices must be followed, says E. B. Fraser, Division of Animal Husbandry, Central Experiment Station, Ottawa. In particular, there are three main essentials which contribute to success in pig raising, namely: top grade feeder pigs; top grade feeding; top grade management. Top grade feeder pigs mean pigs of good bacon type. These are produced from bacon type breeding stock. So,

Regarding Hail

1 bushel of wheat brings from $20.00 to $30.00, if invested in Hail Insurance, and, if you get hailed out.

One crop lost by Hail, would pay Hail Insurance Premiums for 50 years. It is better to have Hail Insurance for 100 years, and not need it, than to need it for 10 minutes, and not have it.

The Alberta Hail Insurance Board

Offers you the best protection available, whether your crop is standing, cut, swathed, or in the stock, right up until October 1st. If you pay cash and do not put in a claim, you get from 5% to 10% returned as dividends, but you may insure for as low as $5.00. Last year all policy holders received dividends. Having made a careful study of adjustment procedure, I am qualified to give advice on settlements.

such attendance is all that can reasonably be expected in school. (I am convinced that absence in excess of 5 per cent are preventable and unnecessary). Children are susceptible to many more diseases than are adults. Epidemics of mumps, measles, whooping cough, and a number of other such diseases are always taking their toll of younger people. I do not for a moment suggest that sick children should be in school. As a matter of fact, many common colds are brought to school that should be kept at home. But I do appeal for the elimination of unnecessary absences. School is held for only five and a half hours in each of 200 hundred days in the year. Surely the holidays in the year is enough even for a child.

NEWSNOTES FROM THE OFFICE OF YOUR DISTRICT HOME ECONOMIST

Shelia M. Forrest, Ryley
Greetings to homemakers in the Wainwright area. Many of the club secretaries have received a copy of my program but if there are any other interested groups I should appreciate hearing from you. I read that now summer vacations are approaching many of you will discontinue meetings for the next two months but I shall be happy to visit any who do not.

In addition to my own program of homemaker's talks I am happy to let you know that Miss Christine McIntyre of the School of Agriculture staff in Olds would be available to work in this district in August. Miss McIntyre has specialized in a study of Personality and Family Relationships and has an excellent program for either women's or girls' clubs. Copies of her program will be mailed to club secretaries whose names I have. Others may Soil drifting reminiscent of the "windy thirties" is taking place in many areas of the Prairie Provinces this spring. Thousands of acres, which were farmed in strips during the dry years, and on which a trash cover was kept, with meticulous care, are now being farmed in large blocks with little or no attempt to provide a protective cover. The important immediate question is, of course, "What can be done this year to reduce the loss of soil from drifting fields?"

Focal Points Important. Soil drifting usually starts from small patches or focal points in a field. If action is taken quickly, spreading a load of coarse manure or straw on these particular points or centres may prevent severe drifting on whole fields. A load of straw, if properly spread, will cover a surprisingly large area. A thin layer of straw on a field is very effective in keeping the soil where it belongs.

Plowing furrows about a rod apart at right angles to the prevailing wind is quite effective in stopping drifting.

Cultivator and One-Way Disc Listers. The discless cultivator and the one-way disc can be readily adapted to the job of listing. To transform a cultivator into a lister, first remove all duckfoot shovels. Lister shovels should then be attached to the proper shanks so that they are spaced 3 1/2 to 4 feet apart. The other shanks should then be tied back or the springs released so that they will not drag in the soil.

Adapting the one-way to listing is done by removing a sufficient number of discs so that those remaining are spaced 3 1/2 to 4 feet apart.

Emergency methods in soil drifting control are valuable. They can prevent serious damage on unprotected fields. A carefully planned, permanent soil drifting control program, however, is much better.

Plan today to save soil tomorrow.

Alberta's Greatest Hydro-Electric Project is moving right along

"Cats" and bulldozers, men, trucks and dynamite are harnessing a rugged world behind the Three Sisters — famous mountains south of the Calgary-Banff Highway. There lie the Spray Lakes, where Calgary Power Ltd. is building the greatest hydro-electric project in Alberta.

This huge development will cost $10,200,000. It will take two years to complete. Five dams will be required. 2,400,000 cubic yards of earth and rock will be excavated. Three power plants will be erected. Their combined output will add 89,000 H.P. to the Company's capacity.

Ready to distribute this new power to the farms, industries and homes of Alberta is the Company's 3,500 mile transmission system fanning eastward across the province to the Saskatchewan border, southward to the United States boundary and north to a hundred miles beyond Edmonton.

Today, new vigor for Alberta's development, new soundness for Alberta's progress, new horizons for Alberta's future are being built by Free Enterprise in the valleys and canyons of the Spray. Already, under the impetus of achievement, crews have set a pace which has put construction to date of this huge project days ahead of schedule.

PHOTO SHOWS coffer dam and first back-up of walls. When main storage dam is constructed at this point, water storage will total approximately 170,000 acre-feet.

ernments answer to the church. The communist press claims more than 1,700 "patriotic priests" have pledged their support.

Following Archbishop Bevan's message to the people, the government spurred promotion of the Catholic Action movement. The press reported trade unions busy adopting resolutions of support and the former Catholic People's party—now purged and renamed the People's Party—joined the campaign.

At the week's end, the archbishop was reported to be sitting tight inside his Prague palace. He is reported to have rejected Communist suggestions that he leave his well-guarded residence for a summer vacation in the country because he suspected the Communists might lock him out if he tried to return.

The palace, as well as the 60-year-old primates, has become a symbol of church resistance to state control. Meanwhile the Czech government said it would be "gross interference with internal affairs of Czechoslovakia" for any foreign diplomat to travel into Slovakia without prior notice. The announcement was made after police detained Major Genaro Verolind, charge d'affaires at the papal nunciature in Prague, and the government rejected a diplomatic protest against his retention.

Reports from Slovakia tell of violent clashes between police and Roman Catholics. Informal sources said at least two Communist policemen were beaten to death and an undetermined number of persons injured during recent clashes there.

Moscow radio announced Saturday the death of one of Communism's fiercest men in the Balkans—Georgi Nikhalovich Dimitrov, 47, premier of Bulgaria. He was one of world Communism's foremost leaders.

Reported to be the most important Communist outside Russia, Dimitrov was a lifelong revolutionary and trusted agent of Premier Stalin. The radio report said he died after three months treatment for diabetes in a sanatorium near Moscow.

He was exiled from Bulgaria for 12 years and was one of the principal defendants in Nazi charges of engineering the Reichstag fire in 1933. Hitler's party never rised to power at the time, were unable to make their accusations stick. Dimitrov confounded his judges and was acquitted.

No announcement has been made as to who will succeed to the Bulgarian premiership. Vassil Kolarov, vice-premier and foreign minister, has been acting premier since April.

The Washington trial of Judith Coplon, charged with being a spy for Russia, ended Friday. The former Justice department worker was sentenced to from 40 months to 10 years on two counts of stealing secrets from the government. She, intending to give them to Valentine Gubitchev, a Russian engineer attached to the United Nations staff.

Prosecuting her innocence on the charge, Miss Coplon plans an appeal. But first she must undergo a second espionage trial in New York along with Gubitchev, whom she said she loved.

Three strikes were making the headlines during the week-end. One of them—a walkout by Communist-led coal miners' unions in Australia—has paralyzed industry in the sub-continent. Residents of the huge port-city of Sydney struggled under restrictions which cut down drastically on all electricity and heat.

Half-a-million men are out of work in New South Wales alone—centre of the coal-mining industry. This week the total unemployment in all Australia was expected to reach $50,000, though most of the jobs are 25c-able for unemployment relief of 35 or 44 a week. Public transportation was stopped, but the government says it can keep essential food supplies moving indefinitely.

In England, a railroad strike continued for wage increases of about 12 weekly. The union on Friday suspended an order to its locals for a slowdown on Sunday night which was intended to enforce the union demands, and the government promised early intervention to solve the dispute.

Though you expel Nature with a club she will always return.

Drive Nature out of the door and it will return by the window.

The perfection of art is to conceal art.

What martial music is to marching men, should song be to humanity.

Music washes away from the soul the dust of everyday life.

Let not the man be trusted who hath no music in his soul.

Make all you can, save all you can, give all you can.

If thou wouldst reap money, sow money.

A fool can make money, but it requires a wise man to spend it.

A shield of gold is a great defence.

T.B. X-RAY CAR TO VISIT CHAUVIN AND EDGERTON

T.B. X-ray car pictured above will visit Chauvin and Edgerton some time in August. The visit of this car to the district affords an excellent opportunity for every person in the community to have a check-up on his or her chest condition. T.B. is a disease which is very insidious in its approach and may be harbored in ignorance. As your own safety and the safety of your family and friends depends upon quick and proper diagnosis and treatment, it is strongly urged that you and your entire family take advantage of this opportunity to have an x-ray examination. It only takes a few minutes, and there is no danger. Moreover you are not required to undress. The pictures are taken to Edmonton where they are viewed by experts, and the results are communicated to your personal physician.

Sign up as early as possible so that plans may be made to handle all who are able to take advantage of this opportunity.

On Sunday, June 28th, Bibles were presented to the following for perfect attendance from September to June, Barbara McLeod, Edna McLeod, Douglas McLeod, Arthur McLeod, Betty Russell, Evelyn Pierce, Lucille Cranston and Walter Cranston.

Last year we started a system where by a silver badge was presented to all those who attended 40 Sundays and at the end of the year those who attended another 40 Sundays received a gold badge.

At end of June 1948—eighteen received silver badges.

At end of June 1949—twelve received gold badges.

They were: Walter Cranston, Arthur McLeod, Douglas McLeod, Gwen Dahl, Betty Russell, Rodger Folkins, Ronald Folkins, Edna McLeod, Mrs. C. Cranston, Sharon Seal, Barbara McLeod and Mr. A. E. Keith. During the year we had 14 names on the Roll Call. Of these 10 moved away from Chauvin. There included two teachers Mr. Glen Rhling and Mr. D'Albertain.

The next Sunday School will be on September 5th.

Willful waste brings woeful want.

School for Miss Marie Benoit, bride-elect.

A pleasant evening was spent playing games and contests. Later in the evening the bride was presented with a pink and white basket overflowing with gifts, for which she fittingly thanked her friends.

At the close of the evening a delicious lunch was served.

VIKING SHIP PREPARES TO INVADE ENGLAND

This is an artist's impression of the Viking ship now being built at Frederiksberg, Denmark, for use when the Viking landing on England's coast is re-enacted on July 28. The ship is 24 metres long and weighs 15 tons and, since it is also to sail to Legdon, has a mast which can be lowered to permit passage under the Thames bridges. The new 'invincible' is being planned by the British and French navies to commemorate the 15th centenary of the original Viking invasion of Britain.

singing." Psalm 100.
The triumphs that men have won have been most fittingly celebrated in the words of some Psalms. When the third Edgerton lighthouse was completed, how one that stood after its predecessors had been swept away by the sea, it was a Psalm that furnished the motto:—"Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it." (Ps. 127:1).

In most of the great struggles of the past for truth and liberty, the Psalms provided the battle-cry. The stern words with which Psalm 18, "because he sounded out by Cromwell when the sun rose on the day of the battle of Dunbar. The Huguenots at Dieppe chanted the same stately war-song as they marched to victory.

In the darkest hours of human experience the Psalms have both expressed the emotions of the heart and brought consolation and encouragement. Through the terrible days of the Indian mutiny, when torture and destruction stalked the land, Dr. Duff said:—"Never before did I realize the literality and sweetness of the Psalmist's assurance:—'I lay me down and slept; I valued; for Thy hand hath sustained me. I will not be afraid of ten thousands of people that have set themselves against me round about. Arise O Lord; save me O God!' " (Ps.
124:7).

I remember an old minister on our Canadian frontier caught in a serious accident when driving alone on a country road, and he said that when it was all over and he found that he and his horse had been marvellously preserved, the significance of that promise in Psalm 124 came to him.
"Lord, Thou preservest man and beast." It was with a Psalm that the Lord Jesus breathed out His soul to God.—"Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit" (Ps. 31:5) and with the same words St. Stephen, St. Bernard, Columbus, Luther and a great multitude which no man can number turned from earth to salvation.

It is unnecessary to multiply instances but these are sufficient to indicate how much the Psalms mean to us. Poetry expresses emotion, and lyrical poetry is "the spontaneous overflow of powerful feelings." Now, the Hebrew felt keenly. The depths of sorrow and despair they explored as no other people did and "out of the depths they cried unto the Lord." They reached the heights of exultation and joy in God on which they walked alone, and they were able to give expression to its meaning in immortal song. "God is the great reality of the Psalmist." To the great singers of Israel there is but one God over all the earth and His hand is seen in everything. When they sin, their remorse gains its keenness from the thought of His displeasure, but, while His wrath against sin burns fiercely, He is ever willing to forgive and restore the penitent.

The first Psalm is a fitting introduction to the whole Book. As Dr. Mc-Fadyen says:—"In the Psalter many voices are heard from men whose faith was strained and hearts were breaking; from men whose steps had well nigh slipped" (Ps. 73:2), and soul was cast down and disquieted within them. (Ps. 41:1). The first Psalm is the answer to all these laments; it expressed in advance the assurance that it is well with good men, and their fortunes were watched over by God.
"You will feel at once the contrast in temper between this utterance and the Book of Job. It points out beyond the range of contradiction, that it is not that the righteous always prosper and the wicked always suffer, that, therefore, it is unjust to infer sin from suffering and that, this present order is far from being governed by the laws of justice and love. Nevertheless what the Psalmist affirms is true: the way to happiness, prosperity and a life that is a blessing to others and a satisfaction to God, is the way of virtue.

Look at any countryside where families are settled permanently, and while there are exceptions both ways, the rule is that enduring prosperity comes to righteousness, that morality is the foundation of power, and that wickedness will blot a family from the earth.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS!

—Central Press Canadian
Perhaps even Queen Elizabeth envied a queen's position in the days when royal pronouncements were the last word in the realm. And perhaps, looking at the gay costumes of past ages, she can't help but think this is a dull generation when it comes to putting on the dog. The occasion was a visit to a show in Hertfordshire put on by a woman's Institute.

covers some 4,500 miles. They are shown here on the Ottawa river.

B OF M TO HAVE DRIVE-IN BANKING FIRST IN CANADA

Shank's-mare takes a beating at the new building planned for the Bank of Montreal's Highway and Granville street branch in Vancouver. Featuring drive-in banking facilities—the first of any chartered bank in Canada—the emphasis at the new building is on streamlined banking service for customers on wheels... even to an inside parking area for baby-carriages. Busy customers will drive up to the special outside teller's window, sit in their cars while being served, then drive on—in a fraction of the time taken for "shank's-mare" customers. Mothers, bothered with the baby-carriage parking problem in the teeming west-coast metropolis, will wheel baby right along with them to the bank, and leave him in the B of M's special pram-parking area while they do their banking.

Drive-in banking has been successfully tried by a number of U.S. banks in recent years. South of the border, bank clients have taken to the new idea enthusiastically, but the B of M is the first chartered bank to try it in Canada. Baby-carriage parking, more common in large chain and department stores in this country, is still an unusual convenience in banks.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

BUTZE

Yes, Butze is still here; if you will get a map you will see it is still located about two miles west of the Saskatchewan border. Well maybe it's a little more than that now because the section gang tells me that in this hot weather the rails expand a little so Butze may be a little closer to Chauvin than it should be.

The week-end visitors in our midst are none other than Ronnie Bayham, Lucien Cyr and Ed Lettisher. They are all still leaning on C.N.R. shoulders with different section gangs. Lucien tells me he is transferred again and is now among the short trees and tall sand hills at Yorkton.

Miss Muriel Sweeney left on Saturday to attend Summer School in Edmonton.

Does anyone want a pair of young pigs? If so get in touch with some of the Butze ball boys. They have a fine pair to dispose of at the small price of 10c. Remember winter is just around the corner, and where could you buy cheaper bacon? These pigs will be raffled at a dance in the Butzeville school, in the near future, watch for the date. Bring your girl friend to the dance and take her home a pair of porkers.

Maxine Fahner was successful in passing her Grade V music exam, which she took in Edmonton recently.

It is said that a person who hits and runs home is a coward, so that is just what our Butze ball boys are. They were proved it on July 1st at the Wainwright in their ball game against the home town club. The Butze boys chalked up a tidy score of 23 runs. Just think, 23 runs in one game. Just a minute now, there's two sides to the story. While our boys were ticking off 23 scores the Wainwright boys weren't asleep either, they were busy circling the diamond 30 times. Fifty three runs in one ball game. The spectators sure got their money's worth that time.

We understand that Don Millar is going to be the new edition to the Butze section gang for the summer months. Get a good, strong handed shovel ready boys!

We notice that Dr. Saville has made a couple of professional calls in our district lately.

Three of our four young maidens accompanied three lads from the north to the Wainwright Sports on July 1st. It seems as though the car let the young folks down a couple of times and they ended up limping in to town on three tires. There is always something to take the joy out of motorizing. However these difficulties have been overcome, we see this same car cruising around the district quite often now.

The wedding bells that we could hear in the distance weren't just a false alarm. One of our district batchelors became tired of eating his own cooking and talking to himself and so he locked his door for a week and when he returned he was travelling double. And so we join in welcoming the new bride to our district, and wishing the young couple lots of success in their new venture.

On closing, I want to give a friendly tip to motorists, especially those driving Baby Fords. Be sure and hobble them or tie them to the hitching post while you are busy doing your shopping. Some time ago one district lady left "Angie" sitting unaccompanied in front of the station while she was doing some business inside. Upon returning she found her car had gone astray. Fortunately no damage was done as the Ford had come to rest astride a mound of earth on the south end of Main Street. Better there than in the show window of Stu's Hardware.

NEILBURG

A miscellaneous shower was held in the Community Hall on Tuesday evening, June 28th, in honor of Alpha Haugen, bride-elect for July. The hall was decorated with many and white bells and streamers and flowers. A short program was enjoyed, then little Della Runge and Carol Haugen, looking very sweet in long dresses and picture hats and show gloves all in mauve and white, and carrying baskets of rose petals which they threw in front of Alpha, as they led her to the honored chair. Mrs. Howard Finnagan spoke on the high esteem in which Alpha is held in the community and wished her every happiness. Miss Lucel Bailey very capably read the gift cards. Alpha very fittingly thanked everyone for the many lovely gifts. A delicious lunch was then served and the bride's cake passed around. We all wish Alpha every happiness in her new home in Edmonton.
